REGULATIONS.

All residents of Hyde Park over ten years of age may take out books.

Two books may be taken at a time, provided only one is fiction.

A fourteen-day book may be renewed for two weeks if application for renewal is made before the book becomes overdue. Such application may be made without bringing the book to the library, and may be made in person or by mail, giving number of book and date when due.

A seven-day book can not be renewed.

A fine of two cents a day is incurred if a book is kept over time.

A fourteen-day book, when next available, will be reserved twenty-four hours for a borrower who leaves a penny or a postal card to cover the expense of sending the notice.

Borrowers are held responsible for damage to books.

A Selected List of Books suitable for Christmas Gifts to Boys and Girls.

---

Miss Clara W. Hunt, superintendent of the children's department of the Brooklyn public library, in a paper read before the American Library Association at Narragansett Pier, said that every child of fourteen should be "familiar with the classics in juvenile literature, those productions which from every point of view are satisfying, providing food for the imagination and heart, ideals of high and noble living, clothing beautiful thoughts in the pure and lovely garb of gracious language. Into this class we gather such treasures as the Greek myths rendered by Kingsley and Hawthorne and Lamb, the Norse stories retold by Maibie, the fables of Æsop, the folk tales of Grimm, Jacobs, Harris, the fairy stories of Andersen, Kipling, Dodgson and Ruskin, the legends of the Middle Ages, told in no less beautiful style than Howard Pyle's, the tales from Shakespeare in Lamb's English, Dalton's Canterbury Pilgrims, with Robinson Crusoe and Pilgrim's Progress, Don Quixote and Froissart and Plutarch; and always the stores of beautiful verse which it is a sin not to help a child to love."

There are other editions of many of the books listed, with varying prices. The ones mentioned are good.
